

Paytm

Paytm is an Indian multinational financial technology company that specializes in digital payments and financial services, based in Noida, India. Paytm offers mobile payment services, e-commerce, and financial services to consumers and merchants in India. It operates Paytm Payments Bank, which offers current and savings accounts, and also provides lending, insurance, and investment products.

Founded in August 2010 as a prepaid mobile and DTH recharge platform, Paytm gradually expanded into other services like bill payments, utility payments, and ticket bookings. In 2014, it launched its mobile wallet, which gained significant traction after the Indian government's demonetization initiative in 2016. Paytm further diversified its offerings by launching Paytm Mall, an e-commerce platform, and Paytm Payments Bank.

Paytm is listed on the National Stock Exchange of India and the Bombay Stock Exchange. Its major investors include Alibaba Group, Berkshire Hathaway, SoftBank, and Ant Group.
